

Christos Papageorgiou was born in Athens, in 1944. With his wife Maria (also a scout leader) they have created a family of four children. He has studied Political Science and is a merchant of old books and prints in Athens. He began his scouting life at the age of 8, a life that he has never abandoned. He served the Scouts of Greece from many posts, the last one being the post of the Vice-President of the National Board. Christos is a chief trainer of the Scouts of Greece and has attended numerous seminars concerning the nature of World Scouting all-over the world. He has attended, among other, the World Scout Conferences in Oslo, Durban, Thessalonica and Tunisia.

Christos has actively joined Desmos from its very beginnings, first as President of the Interim Committee, then as Desmos' Secretary General. He has recently been elected as Desmos' President.
